A girl or woman who has undergone FGM/C is not at fault. She has not violated any U.S. laws by undergoing the procedure.

Eligibility for travel to or for immigration benefits from the United States is not negatively affected by the fact that a person has undergone FGM/C. Additionally, you may be eligible for certain immigration relief if you have undergone FGM/C or fear you are at risk of FGM/C.

The U.S. Government opposes FGM/C.

The U.S. Government opposes FGM/C, no matter the type, degree, or severity, and no matter what the motivation for performing it. The U.S. Government understands that FGM/C may be carried out in accordance with traditional beliefs and as part of adulthood initiation rites. Nevertheless, the U.S. Government considers FGM/C to be a serious human rights abuse, and a form of gender-based violence and child abuse.

The United States is committed to ending FGM/C.

Ending FGM/C is part of the U.S. Government's efforts to protect the health and well-being of, and advance the rights of, women and girls globally. The U.S. Government is working in the United States and in other countries to help educate people about the serious, damaging effects of FGM/C on women and girls.

It is against U.S. law to perform FGM/C on a girl under the age of 18, or to send or attempt to send her outside the United States so FGM/C can be performed.

Violation of the law is punishable by up to 5 years in prison, fines, or both. There is no exception for performing FGM/C because of tradition or culture. Cutting and other procedures that injure the female genital organs of a girl under 18 are prohibited under U.S. law. Additionally, anyone who performs FGM/C on a woman 18 years old or older without her consent may be charged with a crime under other laws.

Violating the law against FGM/C can have immigration consequences.

Performing or assisting in FGM/C, even without a criminal conviction, may have significant immigration consequences, including making one inadmissible to or removable from the United States, as well as ineligible for some immigration benefits.

If you believe you are at risk of FGM/C or have undergone FGM/C, have questions about FGM/C, have information about someone who is performing FGM/C in the United States, or know of someone who may be at risk of having the procedure done here or outside the United States, please call for information or assistance: Childhelp National Child Abuse Hotline: 1-800-4-A-CHILD (1-800-422-4453); or U.S. Department of Health & Human Services, Office on Women's Health Help Line: 1-800-994-9662
