NIWAP

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY WASHINGTON COLLEGE of LAW

Best Practices for Responding to, Investigating and Prosecuting Cases Involving Immigrant Victims of Domestic and Sexual Violence

September 5, 2025, 9 a.m. - 4:45 p.m.

Location: 40 West Chesapeake Avenue, Suite 300, Towson, MD

In-Person Training for Prosecutors, Law Enforcement, and System-Based Advocates

MPCTC Inservice Credits Approved Training

Immigrant victims of crime are often reluctant to call the police for help or to participate in the criminal justice process. In cases involving domestic violence, sexual assault, and stalking the barriers are compounded, as victims often face immigration-related abuse and threats of deportation. This training will provide law enforcement, prosecutors, systems-based victim advocates, child welfare, and state agency staff, with information on the U and T visa programs, including how these programs stabilize victims and improve victim and community safety by increasing victims' justice system participation, which enhances offender accountability. Participants will also learn prosecution best practices in the context of immigrant victim and offender dynamics, including pretrial and trial strategies to counter common defenses in cases involving immigrant victims of crime.

FACULTY

Antonio Flores, Sergent-Inspector, San Francisco, Police Department, CA
Tara Patet, Supervising City Attorney, Saint Paul, MN
Leslye E. Orloff, NIWAP, American University, Washington College of Law

REGISTER HERE

This project is supported by Grant No. VAWA-2024-0047 awarded by the Office on Violence Against Women, U.S. Department of Justice.
The opinions, findings, conclusions and recommendations expressed in this publication are those of the author and do not necessarily reflect the view of the Department of Justice.